CLAIRAULT GAINS RECOGNITION AT THE INTERNATIONAL WINE AND SPIRITS COMPETITION IN LONDON

At the recently held International Wine and Spirits competition in London Clairault received awards for a number of its wines. Most notably its Clairault Chardonnay 2004 won Silver and Best in Class.

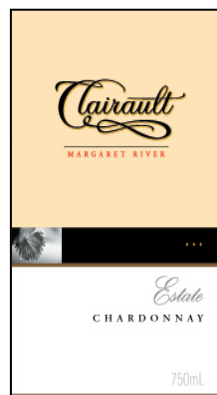

"It is great knowing that we can go up against the best in the world and come up trumps", Bill Martin owner of Clairault Wines said of the achievement.

Clairault also received Silver for their Clairault Estate Chardonnay 2003, Clairault Estate Cabernet Sauvignon 2002 and Clairault Estate Cabernet Merlot 2002. The Claddagh Reserve 1999 walked away with a Bronze.

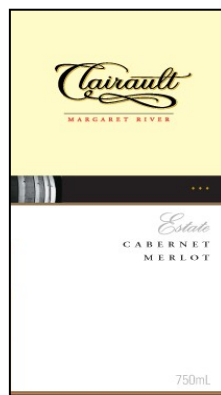

The International Wine and Spirit Competition is the premier competition of its kind in the world. Its aim is to promote the quality and excellence of the world's best wines, spirits and liqueurs. All wines are blind tasted in groups divided by variety, region and vintage. Technical analysis is carried out on all medal winning wines to ensure that all products are technically sound and will be of the same high quality when they reach the consumer as they were when judging panels originally tasted them.
